Email marketing is still a very effective way to communicate if used properly.

Although many companies still use Email to communicate today, we have phased out our own Email services and now encourage businesses to look at Mobile Marketing instead. Mobile is booming and has become the newest and proven marketing method showing a much greater ROI, so you better start transitioning your marketing campaigns over to mobile now.

For those that still want to use email to reach your customer base, we suggest you use one of the recommended providers here:
